NO MORE A DEMOCRAT.

Mr. Holloran Says Irish-Americans Will Resent the Insult to Egan,

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NOBLESVILLE, Ind., Nov. 1 .- Democrate here have hurled a veritable boomerang, which, as everyone knows, is that peculiarly fashioned Australian weapon that once thrown returns with equal force to where the projector stood, and often, in case of an unskillful thrower, may give him a terrible jolt in the neck or below the belt, as the case may be. In this case it is perhaps both. The fact that Mr. John Holloran, a once good Democrat, and president of the Elwood iron-works, had come out for Harrison was a bitter announcement and was doing the "wild-cat" party much damage denial of the statement made in the earlier many Democrats in this vicinity, however, have come out as Republicans that Mr. Holloran's change was not attracting the attention among Republicans it otherwise might have until recently, when Democrats hereabouts, with much bluster and astounding falsity, libeled Mr. Holloran by circulating the story that he was still a Democrat and was going to vote that ticket. This audactous claim aroused Republicans and Mr. Holloran was appealed to for an explanation of his real position. In reply, the following letter from him was received to-day. As said before, it is a dangerous boomerang, for in it Mr. Holloran has an opportunity to brand his traducers as unscrupulous falsifiers and to read all Democrats a lesson who stop to study Mr. Holloran's reasons for becoming a Republican. In the first place, Mr. Holloran says that Democratic papers, by their wholesale misrepresentations, have been making Republican votes, which is no doubt the case. Next, he says that he did not become a Republican until he had devoted nearly a year to a study of the position of the two parties, and that finally "protection to American industries and American workmen," together with "the present prosperous condition of the times as a result of that policy," caused him to proclaim himself a Republican. Further, he says all reports to the contrary are false. From this piece of misrepresentation Mr. Holloran wades into his former political friends and says they have always been misrepresentthat is likely to result in swinging into the Republican ranks numerous Democrats

"It is not necessary," says his letter, "that I should go beyond Elwood for an example. Take the American tin-plateworks. When the company was organized the Democratic papers told us it was only for booming town lots.' When the buildings were completed they told us there would never be any tin-plate made in Elwood. When the ponderous engines and machines were placed in position they told us it was to be a 'rolling-mill for rolling bar-iron.' When the works were ready for work they told us the company was only 'dipping imported plates.' Now, when they see tin-plate manufactured here, rolled from steel billets, dipped in American tin by American workmen, they say it can be done cheaper in Europe. Of course it can, because wages are 'cheaper' there. "But they also tell us the tin-plate-works will be closed after election, and are only run in the interest of the Republican party. If that be true, I would ask why the enormous works to employ two thousand men are being builded at Gas City, and at Atlanta, neither of which will be ready for operation until long after the election?" After further summing up the Democrats' position, with all the elequence of an ex-perienced orator, Mr. Holloran says: "I have another reason for supporting the Republican ticket. I am proud to say that I am an 'Irish-American,' and notice with alarm that the English press is hand in hand with the Democratic press of this country in the support of the Democratic national ticket. This cannot be denied. Cleveland and Stevenson are not only candidates of the Democratic party of this country, but they are also candidates of free-trade England. Mr. Holloran then calls attention to the scurrilous treatment of Minister Patrick Egan by the Democratic and the British press, and says it would be an insult to the true manhood of the Irish character to say that their insults to his race will not be resented.

Another Vote for Harrison.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 1 .- John H Downs, a life-long Democrat, has annonneed through the newspapers that as he is opposed to "the present tax-law, the gerrymander, the return to the 'wild-cat' banking system, and is satisfied with the present administration, believing that the country is in the most presperous condition since he could remember; therefore, he declares that he is for the American eagle. General Harrison and the entire Republican ticket." Mr. Downs is a prominent farmer and announces his determination to vote the Republican ticket after a compiete canvass of the situation. There are also many other former Democrats in this city and county who will cast their first Republican vote next Tuesday. The Republicans are closing the campaign in Montgomery county with a determination to earry the county for the entire Republican ticket. A systematic canvass has been made and everything looks hopeful. It is reported that Democrats are offering $25 to Republicans if they will not vote and they are in desperate straits. Hon. P. S. Kennedy closes the campaign in this city next Monday night. Hon. A. J. Beveridge, of Indianapo-lis, will speak here on Thursday evening. the same thing being done again.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MACHMOND, Ind., Nov. 1 .- The most enthusiastic political meeting that has yet been held in Richmond took place last night at the Grand Opera-house, under the anspices of the First Voters' Ctub. Members of the club, headed by the Richmond Bugie Corps, one of the finest in the State, composed of twenty-eight young men, escorted the speaker, Hon. A. J. Beveridge, from the hotel to the opera-house. On the stage was seated the First Voters' Club. The boxes were filled with voters of 1840, while the auditorium and gallery were packed with an andience eager to hear the gifted young Indianapo-has speaker. He first reviewed the history of tariff legislation, showing the effects of every tariff law, both revenue and protective. He showed that the experience of the last century demonstrates that the position of the Republican party is the correct one. He then discussed the effects of reciprocity and the other issues of the spoke at the court-house and had a crowd campaign in his eloquent manner. He took the andience by storm, the applause at frequent intervals being almost deafen-and Is Aware of It. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

SUMMITVILLE, Ind., Nov. 1 .- For two weeks it has been advertised that W. D. Bynum, the alleged friend of the farmer and workingman, would speak here, and it was intended to make it the crowning effort of the campaign in this section, but at the hour announced there were only congregated about two hundred persons, of whom one-third were Republicans. Mr. Bynum delivered one of his characteristic time-worn speeches of misrepresentation and misconstruction, and gaye figures proof for nothing. In speaking of carrency he said State currency, although elastic, the value rising and falling as business demanded, was as good as na-tional bank notes backed by government bonds. He attempted to explain that free trade was in the interest of the wage-earner, and said there never was a greater fallacy than our home markets, and that Cleveland in Hamilton and Madison counties. So part of the campaign that he never said duty Nov. 8. tin-plate could not be made in this coun-In conclusion, he spoke of President Harrison in a very disrespectful manner, such as is unbecoming in any American. It was easily discernible that Mr. Bynum was not as enthusiastic as in the past, and he seems to be cognizant of the fact.

Hon. R. A. Black's Telling Speech

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GREENFIELD, Ind., Nov. 1 .- To-night Hon, R. A. Black, of this city, made the ablest Republican speech that has been made here this year. He spoke for two and a half hours to one of the best audiences of the campaign, composed of business and laboring men, and gave his entire attention to the tariff. Having been in Europe during the past summer he compared the condition of the laboring people of Europe with those of America. He also exposed the lies of Democratic orators concerning the price of American machinery in Europe. It sells 50 per cent, higher there. The speaker read from English and Scotch papers and all were unanimously for the election of Cleveland, as the McKinley bill was removing English wealth and Scottish factories to America. Of the hundreds of English workingmen Mr. Black conversed with he never met one that owned his own home, or one that knew a workingman that did own his own home. Mr. Black is an Irishman, but every inch an American, and prefers America before the world. He has lived here for twenty-five years, and his speech did a vast amount of good.

Foulke Forgot the Soldier.

Special to the Indiapapolis Journal. ORLEANS, Ind., Oct. 31.-Hon. W. Dudley Foulke, the great civil-service reformer, spoke here to-day. It was to have been the big gun of the campaign and while it was widely advertised and the bushes were all beat, the crowd was small. He devoted much of his time to tariff reform and civil service matters, but not a word was said about the soldier or the "wild-cat" money. He advocated free trade as his reform of the tariff. One pleasing feature was that his audience was made up of oldtime Democratic wheel-horses and there was not a young voter of the Democratic persuasion in his audience. So thoroughly did he disgust his audience that before he was half through his "reform" argument one-half the seats were emptied.

Final Hally at Hope.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. HOPE, Ind., Nov. 1 .- Republicans of castern Bartholomew county held their closing rally to-day, and thousands were in attendance. Hon. H. S. Kenworthy, of lows, spoke in the opera-house at 2 o'clock. every available seat being occupied and hundreds turned away disappointed at not getting to hear the distinguished orator. He held his audience for two hours. His searching investigation of the Democratic record for the last thirty years enlisted the closest attention, and his many witty hits were greeted with rounds of hearty applause. Hammond Can't Even Make a Speech. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

CROWN POINT, Ind., Nov. 1 .- Hon. Will 1am Johnson, Republican candidate for Congress in this district, began his canvass in this county Friday, speaking to a large crowd at Lowell on that afternoon and at East Chicago in the evening. Saturday he spoke to the largest crowd that has been in this city the present campaign. If any one has any doubts that the Tenth district will send a Republican to the next Congress, it is some one who does not live in this district. Even the Democrats admit that Judge Johnson is far superior to the Democratic candidate, Thomas Hammond, who is not even able to make a campaigu speech, not to speak of other disabilities.

Gurley Brewer Now in Illinois.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PARIS, Ill., Nov. 1 .- One of the most enthusiastic meetings held here this campaign was the colored Republican meeting at the opera-house to-night. Hon. Gurley Brewer, a colored attorney from Vincennes, Ind., addressed the meeting. He is a scholarly and forcible speaker, and won his audience. He handled his subject in a masterly manner, and spoke for nearly two hours on the tariff question and the work accomplished by the present administration. He was enlogistic in his praise of the Hon, Joseph Cannon's course in Congress, and certainly made votes for Mr. Cannon. The colored people turned out in large

Washington County Will Be All Right. Special to the Inguanapolis Journal.

SALEM, Ind., Nov. 1 .- The campaign in Washington county closes with a rally at Livenia and York on Thursday and three grand rallies Saturday at Pekin, Campbelisburg and Fredericksburg. From fif teen to thirty speeches have been made in this county every week for the past five weeks, and Washington county is aroused as it never was before. The leaders are confident of a large increased Republican vote, provided a fair election can be secured. Governor Chase is quite strong in this county and Republicans are confident of his election and of carrying the State for

Conger and Miller to Speak,

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ELWOOD, Ind., Nov. 1.-The last grand Republican rally to be held in Elwood has been dated for Thursday evening, Nov. 3. The speakers will be Attorney-general W. Rallied in the Rain,

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SEYMOUR, Ind., Nov. 1 .- The enthusiaso of the Republicans of Jackson' county could not be dampened by the continuous rain which has fallen all day. A grand rally was held in Medora this afternoon, and one thousand people stood in the rain and listened to Hon. W. S. Kenworthy, of lowa. He held the crowd for an hour and a half, and when he concluded his speech they made the welkin ring with their cheers. Mr. Kenworthy spoke to a packed house in this city to-night.

Cheadle at Oakland City.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. OAKLAND CITY, Ind., Nov. 1 .- Hon. J. I Cheadle addressed one of the largest night meetings ever held in Oakland City tonight. He spoke on State and national taxation. He showed up the injustice and irregularities of the new tax law, and demonstrated that a "tariff for revenue only" would be equally unjust. He was often applauded. The meeting closed with three rousing cheers for the whole ticket. Gibson county Republicans will do their whole

Chicago Fire-Proof Athletic Club Building Destroyed-Frenzied Hotel Guests.

CHICAGO, Nov., 1. - Between 2 and o'clock this morning great volumes of smoke and flame were seen to issue from the fourth story of the new Chicago Athletic Club building on Michigan avenue, near Madison. Right in the rear of the | death. club-house were the Continental Hotel and the St. Bernard House, while on the south and north were the Chicago fire evclorams and the Western Bank-note Building. The club-house was supposed to be fire-proof, but it burned like tinder, and before a fire company could get on the ground the whole interior of the structure was a seething furnace. The guests in the two hotels had plenty of time to escape, even though the fire had spread. But they became frenzied by the sight of the flames so near, and began tumbling over each other in an endeavor to escape what seemed certain death. Probably a dozen clambered down the fire-escape in neglige costumes, some with their wearing under their arms. others had nothing at all. majority reached the street via the staircase and every one got out safely. In the meantime the fire was rapidly consuming the club-house, and in less than forty minutes nothing was left but the bare walls. Great masses of blazing debris were showered on to the cyclorama and bank-note company's building, but were extinguished as fast as they fell. The eyclorama was damaged by water to a considerable extent. The loss on the club building is variously estimated at from $80,000 to $125,000. It was still in the hands of the contractor, who had not yet turned it over to the Athletic Association. The union carpenters who had been employed on the building went out on a strike only a few hours before the fire started. The flames broke out simultaneously on four different floors. The carpenters' strike was in sympathy with a strike by the electrical mechanics, who quit some weeks ago because the contractor refused to discharge non-unionists. Incendiarism at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 1 .- This morning an attempt was made to burn the Star Theater on Euclid avenue. At noon to-day fire was discovered in the tower of the Atwater Building at the viaduct end on Superior street. The department soon extinguished the flames. Burned rags were found on the floor of the tower-room. The elevator oy says a young man went up the stairs a short time before the fire broke out. There is a feeling of apprehension throughout the city over the apparent determination of fire-bugs to destroy these blocks.

Pendleton the Scene of Another Disgrace ful Shooting Scrape.
Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

PENDLETON, Nov. 1.-The hilarities of Hallowe'en night were attended with a shooting affray at Lackey's saloon. John Howell entered the saloon, and Lackey informed him that minors were not allowed. With some words Howell went out, but turned and fired as the door closed, the ball passing through the door and striking Lackey in the palm of the left hand. It was taken out back of the thumb. Howell then threw open the door and attempted to shoot a second time, but was prevented by bystanders. There was no arrest, and no effort is being made in that direction.
The town marshal was interviewed while he was toacting his shins about the grocery fires, this morning, and said he had made no effort to apprehend the would-be mur-derer, and didn't know whether or not there would be an arrest. This is the second shooting that has occurred in Pendleton within the last year, and the law has taken little or no notice of either, MUNCIE, Nov. 1 .- Mr. John Galligher, vice-president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel-workers of the Eighth district, which includes the seat of the recent great labor trouble in Pennsylvania, addressed a mass-meeting at the Walnut-street Opera-house, last night, soliciting aid for the striking iron-workers. The meeting was very largely attended by members of Muncie's many labor organizations and sympathizing citizens, about seven hundred persons being present. Mr. Galligher stated that there were about two hundred members of the association under indictment in the Alleghany county court, and if those men be guilty, as charged, the association will lose this fight, and all organized labor will soon fall in the same footsteps. The gentleman was particularly severe on Frick, and censured the laws of Pennsylvania and the newspapers alike. The con-tributions were liberal, Muncie Trades' Council donating $100.

STORY OF A BANK.

It Was of the Wild-Cat Variety, and Was Perhaps the Wildest of That Numerous Family.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journals In 1853 I moved to Morocco, Ind., lo cated in what was then Jasper county. It was but a small hamlet of some ten or twelve houses, and about forty miles west of what was then called Bradford, now Monon, which was the nearest railroad station. In the summer of 1854 I went to Cincinnati and there I saw money in circulation on the Bank of America at Morocco, Ind. Having left Morocco but a few days before, and feeling sure there was no bank there when I left, I could not understand it, and on my return to Morocco a few days after no one there had heard of any bank being established: but in a day or two my-self and a Mr. M., one of my neighbors, were called to Rensselaer on business, and on arriving in the town a Mr. S., the leading official of the place, called us into his office and told us that a bank had been located at Morocco, and that in a short time parties would be there with a safe, money, etc., ready to do a banking business, but for fear some of the mony might be sent there for redemption pre-vailed on Mr. M. to take $100 in specie to redeem any stray bills which might come in. A few of the bills were presented in the next month or two, and Mr. M. having paid the $100 received by him for that purpose, and a like amount of his own money, and no one putting in an apprarance to open up the office, he sent a man to Rensselear to find out what had become of the owners of the bank. The messenger hunted up Mr. S., who had furnished the information and the money on our visit there, and he said the bank had changed hands and he did not know what would be done in the future. The bank was afterward wound up by the Auditor and Secretary of State at 80 cents on the dollar. This bank was located in an almost uninhabited country, forty miles from the nearest railroad and put out $50,000 circulation. There never was an office, safe or officer within twenty miles of the purported place of location. This is only a history of one out of hundreds scattered all over the State at that time. And this is the system our Democratic friends want to

MERCHANT POLICEMAN SHOT.

He Tries to Arrest Two Suspicious Characters and Is Assaulted.

About midnight last night Merchant policeman Meyers saw two colored men coming out of an alley near the corner of Ash and Cherry streets carrying basket. Meyers suspected that al was not right, and stopping them attempted to search the basket. As he stepped up to them he drew his revolver and held it ready for use. While he was searching the basket one of the men quickly drew a revolver and fired. The ball pierced the ear and entered the head immediately back of it, taking a course around the skull and coming out at the back of the neck. His face was badly powder-burned on account of the proximity of the revolver when the shot was fired. Meyers was stunned and staggered back against the fence and the men fled. Meyers quickly recovered, hewever, and fired two shots at them, but is unable to say whether he hit either of them or not. Merchant policeman Whitman, who patrols the adjoining district, was attracted to the scene by the firing, and found Meyers bleeding profusely and still some-what dazed. He walked with Whitman to Dr. E. S. Elder's residence. No. 39 Christian avenue, where his wounds were dressed. Kregelo & Whitsett's ambulance was called to the Doctor's residence, and removed Meyers to his home, No. 306 Alvord atreet. The wound inflicted was merely a scalp wound, and will hardly result fatally.

FIGHTING THE SUGAR TRUST.

THE NEW IMPROVED

Indianapolis Wholesalers Do Not Want to Have Prices Dictated to Them.

Mr. C. T. Osborn, the New York representative of the American Sugar Trust, was in this city last week, endeavoring, with indifferent results, to interest the wholesale grocers of the city in what is called the "equality-of-rebate plan." Mr. Osborn also yesterday presented his plan to the wholesale grocers of Chicago, and it was opposed by the firm of Schnull & Craig, of jected by the Chicago firms.

this city, which was represented, and re-The "equality-of-rebate plan" was proposed at the national meeting of wholesale grocers in New York last June, and would have been adopted had it not been for the active opposition of Chicago, supplemented by nearly all the leading houses in Mil-waukee, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City and St. Joseph. St. Louis and a few other Southern points were in favor of it, but it was temporarily shelved. The meeting had no sooner adjourned than sly work was begun by the trust and its friends to work the opposition over to the scheme, and a few weeks ago a very ingenious circular was sent out confidentially to the wholesale grocers. It is ingenious because it seeks to evade the trust law of Missouri, by claiming it would promote competition and at the same time contains the outline of a plan that would totally destroy all competition and put the sugar trade entirely in the hands of the trust, with power to diotate price and limit the output.

The wholesale grocers of this city say they have not received copies of the circular. The main opposition to the plan seems to be that it would not be observed by some, thus working injury to others.

MRS. GRUBBS'S RECEPTION.

Mrs. D. W. Grubbs entertained her friends very pleasantly yesterday afternoon, in the east parler of the Propylanm, in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Lafon Riker, of Harrodsburg, Ky., and Mrs. George H. Chapman. The beauty of the room was enhanced by the quantities of plants, flowers and draperies used. The corners were pilled with pyramids of palms, and the mantel was almost hidden with palms and vines, and scarfs and curtains were tastefully arranged. Bowls and vases of roses and crysenthemums added not a little to the agreeable effect. In one corner of the room was a table decorated in white and crystal. white chrysanthemums in tall glasses and crystal candelabra, with white candles and shades. Here coffee was served. In the opposite corner was a table in yellow. with rich draperies of Spanish lace looped at the corners with carnations and asparagus. Yellow chrysanthemums and candelabra with yellow candles and shades ornamented the corner. Mrs. Grabbs had as-Evans, Mrs. C. E. Dark, Mrs. C. F. Bristol, Mrs. V. K. Hendricks, Mrs. A. D. Thomas, Mrs. G. A. Wells, Miss Eliza Hendricks, Mrs. E. C. Miller, Mrs. James M. Winters, Mrs. Carl Swiggett, Miss Anna Hendricks, Miss Stowell, Miss Wallick, Miss McGilliard, Miss Goods and Miss Kate Davidson. Misses Eugenia Woolfolk and Florence Grubbs presented each guest with a carnation. There were a large number of invitations extended to the friends of Miss Grubbs, Mrs. Riker and Mrs. Chapman. The reception was one of the very enjoyable gatherings given in Mrs. Chapman's honor since her return
